Phoenix Appoints Honorary Member Iris Davenport Is Presented Award

FRANCES HILL

High recognition will be given to Miss Iris Davenport, an outstanding alumna of GSCW. This honor is the election of Miss Davenport to honored membership in Phoenix for her distinguished public service in home economics.

Miss Davenport is a native North Carolinian. She is a graduate of GSCW. She earned her B.S. degree at the University of Georgia, and her M.A. degree at Columbia University and continued her studies in Paris, France, and at Louisiana State University.

Miss Davenport is a most distinguished person in the South. She is editor of the Woman's Department of Farm and Ranch Magazine, and is probably considered the best known woman in the South. In 1948, from a poll among 1,000,000 southern clubwomen conducted by the Atlanta Constitution and the Atlanta Womens' Chamber of Commerce, Miss Davenport was named one of the nation's six most outstanding women born in the South.

In addition to being a welcome guest in over 1,300,000 southern homes each month through the pages of Farm and Ranch Magazine, she travels an average of 30,000 miles a year. Millions of people see her on radio and TV. She could be said to be the South's most invited woman speaker.

There are many other remarkable activities and positions in which Miss Davenport has participated. In home economics she began her career as a teacher, and became head of the home economics department at Georgia State Normal. She was a specialist on the staff of the Louisiana and Kentucky Extension Service before joining Farm and Ranch Magazine. She is immediate past president of the National Home Economics In Business.

Miss Davenport is a member of the Gallery of Greats in Contemporary Journalism, and an honorary life member of the 4-H Clubs and Future Homemakers in America. There are numerous other organizations to which she has contributed much of her individuality, personality, and knowledge.

She was among the top three people chosen by the Epsilon Sigma Phi Honor, for such outstanding contributions to agriculture and homemaking. The three were Secretary Ezra Benson, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, and Miss Iris Davenport.

Also, Miss Davenport has served in the grand finals of the Mrs.

America Contest, and in scores of regional and state contests of many kinds. She will, this year, serve as the chairman of the judges in the grand finals of Mrs. America Contest.

Miss Davenport is very outstanding in leadership and contributions to the South.

Miss Iris Davenport

Science Building Given New Name Honors Dr. Herty

Mae Roberson

"The Charles Holmes Herty Hall" is the new official name of the science building on the GSCW campus. The announcement was made by Dr. Henry King Stanford Saturday evening, May 5, at the annual Herty Day banquet. Action taken by the Board of Regents at its May meeting gave the building its official name.

The science building has been named in honor of Dr. Herty who was born in 1867 in a house which stood on what is now the GSCW campus. Dr. Herty attended GMC and received his Ph.D. from John Hopkins. Among other things, he organized Georgia's first football team at the University of Georgia and found that newsprint could be made from Georgia pine.

"Herty Hall" was completed in 1954 and is the newest of the buildings on campus.

Parents Visit Students For Honor's Day Events

ELLEN STILL

Today many parents, friends, and relatives are on the campus for the annual Honor's Day. Dean MacMahon announced that classes will not be held after 10:20 A.M. Parents will begin arriving during chapel period and will register in the dormitories. Parents of town girls will register at the SU.

Parents are invited to come by the SU for coffee between 11:00 and 11:45. Miss Gilbert, Miss Maynard, class representatives, and home economics majors will be in charge. Faculty members whose offices are in Parks, second floor of Arts, and the education building are invited to come to the SU during the morning to meet the parents.

The following departments are holding open house for visitors between 11:15 and 12:45: home economics, business, language, physical education, music, and science. The library and art departments will have exhibits in the book corner of the SU.

At 12:45, parents and students will gather on front campus. Miss Bethel will announce the dormitory attendance winner. The blessing will be sung by the students and the picnic lunch will last from 12:45 until 1:45.

At 1:55, the academic procession will form on the porch of Parks. The procession will begin at 2:00 with Dr. Fuller as faculty marshal and Mr. Specht as student marshal.

Honor's Day exercises will be held in Russell Auditorium from 2 until 3:15 p.m. There will be a tea in the mansion from 3:30 to 4:30 honoring Phoenix members and Mr. Irvine S. Ingram, who will receive the GSCW distinguished service award. The long week-end begins about 4:30 p.m.

Phi Sigma Recognized At GSCW Honor's Day

JEAN SADDLER

Members of Phi Sigma, the honorary fraternity for sophomores, will receive special recognition on Honor's Day, May 10, at the afternoon ceremony in Russell Auditorium.

In order to be admitted into Phi Sigma, a student must be on the dean's list at least once, and maintain an over-all B average during her freshman year. Dr. Sara Nelson, chairman of the mathematics department, is advisor for the group.

Dr. Irvine S. Ingram Is Service Award Recipient

Dr. Stanford Presents Award on Honor's Day

IONA JOHNS

Dr. Irvine S. Ingram, the first and only president of West Georgia College, has been chosen to receive the 1956 Distinguished Service Award of the Georgia State College for Women. The award will be presented by Dr. Henry King Stanford, president, on Thursday, May 10, at the annual Honors Day program.

Dr. Ingram is the son of a Methodist minister. Due to his father's death he withdrew from college and the Georgia School of Technology and finished his undergraduate work at the University of Georgia. He studied at such institutions as the University of Chicago and George Peabody College but received his master's degree at Emory.

In 1920, he became principal of Fourth District A. & M. School, Carrollton, where he began his contribution to rural Georgia. In 1933, Fourth District A. & M. was changed to West Georgia College.

Dr. Ingram's College in the Country's adult education program began at West Georgia College in 1936. The Country's adult education program has made the resources of his college available to rural communities. The adult education has been defined in three phases. The initial program was one concerning health. Dr. Ingram helped in getting the Ellis Health Law in effect in Carroll County. The second phase was economics. This phase resulted in developing co-operatives in canneries, potato drying houses, grist mills, etc. Cultural, the third phase, developed in 1947-48-49. It became known as 'College in the Country.'

Dr. Ingram was conference lay leader for the North Georgia Conference and four times a member of the General Conference of the Methodist Church. He has been president of the Georgia Association of Junior Colleges and the Georgia Association of Colleges. He has served as president of the Georgia Historical Society of Research. He was for many years on the Commission of Higher Education of the Accrediting Commission of Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. He has also been a Rotary governor.

Dr. Ingram's theme is Total Education. Dr. Stanford stated, "Entirely without seeking personal acclaim, Irvine Ingram has won for himself a unique place in American education. By making the resources of his college available to rural communities, he pioneered the 'College in the Country' program which has caught the imagination of educators around the world. Dr. Ingram's entire career has been one of distinguished service to Georgia."

Other recipients of the GSCW Distinguished Service Award are Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution; Dr. Philip Weltner, former president of Oglethorpe University; Hughes Spalding, former chairman of the board of regents of the University System of Georgia; and Robert W. Woodruff, finance committee chairman of the Coca-Cola Company board of directors.

Scholars Receive Phoenix Awards

Eight seniors who rank in the upper eight percent of their class scholastically have been elected to Phoenix. These girls will be awarded the certificates of membership by Dean Donald MacMahon at the afternoon exercises of Honor's Day in Russell Auditorium.

Those girls elected are Dallas Ann Patterson, from Cussetta, Georgia, who is a graduate of Cussetta High School and who is majoring in math; Jean Stokes, Empire, Georgia, who is a graduate of Cochran High School and whose major is education; Patsy Blalock Mathis, Tifton, Georgia, who is a graduate of Tifton High School and who is majoring in chemistry; Mrs. Mildred Boleyn, Milledgeville, Georgia, who is a graduate of Lafayette High School in Lafayette, Georgia, and who is majoring in elementary education; Miriam Smith McKinley, White Plains, Georgia, who is a graduate of Greensboro High School and who is majoring in sociology; Elaine Langdon, Washington, Georgia, who is a graduate of Hawkinsville High School and who is majoring in chemistry and biology; Manolita Fernandez, Elberton, Georgia, who is a graduate of Elberton High School and who is majoring in Spanish and math; and Beth Hardy, Hawkinsville, Georgia, who is a graduate of Hawkinsville High School and who is majoring in math and English.

The honor which they will receive today is the highest honor GSCW can bestow on graduates.

Spectrum Dedication Honors 'Izzie'

On Monday, May 7, the formal dedication of the 1956 Spectrum to Miss Isabel Rogers was made in Chapel.

Carolyn Register, editor, read the dedication from the annual with holding to the last the name of the recipient of the honor, "Izzie."

"Izzie," Director of Voluntary Religious Activities on campus, was honored for her genuine interest in students and her untiring efforts on their behalf.

The announcement came as a complete surprise to "Izzie" as well as to the student body. The feeling of the students as expressed by Carolyn was "... because what we feel can not be expressed in words, we hope you will understand that we mean infinitely more when we say — best wishes for the future — thanks for everything — we love you, Izzie ..."

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

There has been much emphasis around campus lately on the fact that we are adults entitled to adult privileges. Before we boast too much, however, there is something we should stop and think about. It is a psychological fact that most adolescents go to extremes in taking advantage of their new found freedom as almost-adults. They throw off the bonds of tradition and parental authority in order to show the world that they are capable of living their own lives. This attitude is a necessary part of emotional growth. Most of us fail to realize, however, that this period of independence must be a temporary one. If we are to grow into mature adults, we must eventually pass on to the realization that the basic prerogative of adulthood is not freedom but responsibility.

College students have passed the peak of adolescence and are almost adults. We will soon be members of the adult community. We will be the business people and parents. Whether we are ready for them or not, we will have the frightening powers which our society gives to adults. Even now we are realizing our powers as citizens of a democratic community. If we are to use these powers effectively, we must see now our great responsibilities.

One of the basic principles of the democratic form of government is the achievement of the greatest good for the greatest number of people. One of our responsibilities as adults is to move out of the self-centeredness of childhood into the concern for others which characterizes the mature adult. We are our brother's keeper in that we have the power to make and enforce rules which will influence his way of life. We have no right, as individuals or as a group, to create any hindrances to the living of useful lives by any of our number. In fact, it is our duty to take positive action to insure the "greatest good." If it is necessary for 99% of us to sacrifice something we call "freedom" in order to help the 1% grow to maturity, it is our responsibility to do so. There is no such thing as freedom for those who would accept the privileges of adulthood. If we think only of ourselves, we are chained to a stake of iron, around which we can only move in endless circles, never being able to go beyond to rich and meaningful lives. Until we each learn to think through our actions in the light of the whole, our democracy is but a farce. It is only idle play-acting of children who have never learned that life is not lived until it is lived for others.

Sincerely,
Carolyn Register.

Choir Homecoming

Carol Taylor

You have heard of the homing pigeons that fly back to their first home, no matter how far away they might be. A Cappella Choir members are like that. They always return for the annual choir homecoming. This year they will be here on May 18 and 19.

The first thing on program will be the "Mikado" to be presented Friday. A reception will be held after the opera in the Alumnae House rec. hall. All the old and new members and their dates will gather for a period of recreation and reminiscence.

Saturday morning Dr. Noah will show movies of the choir in years gone by. It is interesting to see how things looked when the choir started twenty-one years ago.

At the induction service to be held at 3:00 P. M. Saturday, those who have served in the choir for one full year will be initiated into the Choir Guild and given certificates of membership. Those who have served three years are awarded the choir pin. Service for four years is recognized by the addition of a guard to the pin.

JESSIES

By Alice Gilmore

...and when you come, Moin you'll be amazed at my new maturity."

Welcome To GSCW

GSCW extends special welcome to the parents, relatives and friends of the students who are visiting our campus today.

WALKER

We Jessies have greatly anticipated your coming for this gala occasion. It is a pleasure to have you here.

There is a certain feeling about Honor's Day that makes it a part of the GSC spirit, and it is a day that remembers for days to come.

Today recognition will be given the students for special achievement both in academic and extra-curricular fields.

We hope that all of you have a wonderful time today and will come next year to join us in the events of another "big" day.

The Real Reason

Jo McCommons

How many times have you asked yourselves this question, "Why am I at college?" Some people give the candid reply, "I am here because my mother packed me up and put me on the bus." Others go to college because they don't have anything else to do. None of these attitudes is good simply because there is a bigger reason for going to college. That reason is the desire to better one's self in everything. At college, you learn to live with people, which is essential in every walk of life. You are exposed to the finer things of life that you would not come in contact with otherwise.

College is really a "state of existence" and we who are at college now must realize that this is our chance to improve ourselves in every way possible.

It is not fair to our parents and to society for us to make light of this wonderful opportunity to prepare ourselves for the future. Girls who come to college to play are not good college material. There is the work that you do and that is very important. Those who are slack in their studies will tend to be the same way in whatever profession they choose to make their life's work. We are not being fair to ourselves when we neglect our studies. We are all guilty of procrastination and that is one of the worst habits a person can form. We are in the final quarter of this academic year and it is time to give one last surge of energy so that we may be proud of this last quarter's work.

The only way to get anything out of college is to put everything you have into your work. No man or woman was ever praised for being lazy, but they have been praised for their efforts. Take your work seriously and don't let anything interfere with getting an education.

The Greatest Person

Betty Jones

Mother's Day is the national holiday dedicated to the memory of "the best mother in the world, your mother." It is found to be one of the nearest heartfelt, personal national holidays in which we participate.

Due to the ceaseless efforts of Miss Ann Jarvis of Philadelphia, President Woodrow Wilson signed the bill in 1914, that the second Sunday in May be observed as "a public expression of love and reverence of the mothers of our country."

You may show love or reverence "through some distinct act of kindness, visit, special letter, gift or tribute or wreath to show remembrance of the mother to whom general affection is due."

There is a Jewish saying that "God could not be everywhere and therefore he made mothers." This contrasts with the Christian belief that God is always present; furthermore, it is not believed literally by the Jews but it helps express the loving concern of mothers.

Mothers are always thinking of thoughtful things to do and say which mean so much to us. Whatever comes in joy or sorrow, the tender, loving care of mothers is ever there to share our fate.

Much credit can be given mothers, as well as fathers, for giving us this golden opportunity of coming to college here at GSCW. It is hardly possible that we can ever repay the many sacrifices which they have made to keep us happy even though we show tremendous love.

Even now, we realize though mothers are not constantly with us, we apply the advice which they have offered throughout the years. The able and immortal Abe Lincoln said, "All that I am or hope to be, I owe to my angel mother."

The failure to tell or show your love for your mother will spoil a lovely and an awe-inspiring pleasure for you. Take advantage of this golden opportunity, if it is possible, and make both of you happy.

The GSCW Spanish Club Homecomers Met Here

The annual homecoming of Spanish majors was held the week-end of May 4 at Lake Sinclair and the Language Institute. The people who attended were graduates of GSCW and present students of the college.

This event was sponsored by the Spanish Club which is composed of majors, foreign students, and students studying Spanish.

The main activities began when the group met at the Language Institute at 10:00 a. m. to go to Dean Donald Mahon's cabin on Lake Sinclair.

Before the picnic lunch was served, the group participated in games and sunbathing.

Following lunch a humorous play entitled "El Ojito Derecho" was presented in Andalusion Spanish by Tini Cusimadelaga, Thelma Palmer, and Rosemary Cary. Sherrill Brown and Manolita Fernandez portrayed the donkey, who was the main character in the play.

The group returned to the campus about 5:00 p. m. The activities for the night began about 7:30 at the Language Institute. The group listened to Spanish records and sang until dinner.

Following dinner the entire group was entertained by a Spanish play entitled, "Manana de Sol". Those participating in this play were; Manolita Fernandez, Sherrill Brown, Rosemary Cary, and Thelma Palmer. After the skit, Flo Baquero and Nora Chebanev did some native dances of their counties.

The people who attended homecoming this year were: Mary Lois Jones, Georgina Martinez, Louise Powell, Mrs. Agnes Jacobs Johns and her husband Mr. Carol Johns, and Mrs. Jackie Pickrin Horton, Flor Baquero, Nora Chebanev, Manolita Fernandez, Tini Cusimadelaga, Thelma Palmer, Sherrill Brown, Rosemary Cary, Louraine Gilmore, Marcia Hodges, Edith Goggins, Miss Gloria Vicedomini, and Mrs. Mangiafico.

Literary Guild Group Visit Plantation Home

Blount Hall, an old plantation home owned by a Captain Blount just after the Civil War and recently renovated by former chemistry professor, Dr. L. C. Lindsley, was the scene of the last meeting of the Literary Guild. After Dr. Lindsley had shown the group around the old home, from whose windows remains of the old slave houses may still be seen, a picnic lunch was spread inside the house.

The rooms have been restored to a condition as much like their original state as possible, even the woodwork and designs preserved wherever it was left intact. Dr. Lindsley, who has done all the restoration himself, has furnished the rooms with antique furniture of the same period.

Before going out to Blount Hall part of the group stopped at Dr. and Mrs. Lindsley's where they were shown Dr. Lindsley's collections of antique china and dating back to before the time of Christ.

In the last meeting of the Literary Guild prior to the outing at Blount Hall, officers for the next school year were elected and assumed their offices. Beth Royal was elected president; Jane Bell, vice-president; and Martha Thomas, secretary-treasurer. Retiring officers were Beth Hardy, president; Gail Thompson, vice-president; and Billie Sue West, secretary-treasurer.

Following dinner the entire group was entertained by a Spanish play entitled, "Manana de Sol". Those participating in this play were; Manolita Fernandez, Sherrill Brown, Rosemary Cary, and Thelma Palmer. After the skit, Flo Baquero and Nora Chebanev did some native dances of their counties.

Choir Presents 'Mikado'

Carol Taylor

The college choir will present "The Mikado", by Gilbert and Sullivan, on May 18 in Russell Auditorium. This is the first event scheduled for choir homecoming-week end. It is listed on the calendar as the "Choir Oratorio", but this is not exactly what it is. "The Mikado", one of the famous Gilbert and Sullivan operettas, has a colorful Japanese setting.

The cast contains some well-known local artists and also some unknown stars. Clyde E. Keeler has the main part as The Mikado of Japan, Belton Hammond is his son, Nanki-Poo, who is in love with Yum-Yum. Robert Gary plays the part of Ko-Ko, The Lord High Executioner. John Page has the role of Pooh-Bah, Lord High Everything Else. John Birchall is Pish-Tush, a noble lord.

The women's parts are taken by choir soloists. Yum-Yum, Pitti-Sing, and Peep-Bo are Three Sisters, played by Nan Hoover, Betty Churchwell, and Pat Garrett, respectively. Iris Barr plays the part of Katisha, an elderly lady, in love with Nanki-Poo.

As you can see, the plot gets quite complicated with so many mixed-up love affairs. Katisha is in love with Nanki-Poo, Nanki-Poo loves Yum-Yum, and Ko-Ko wants to marry Yum-Yum. On May 18 you can find out how Yum-Yum manages her two lovers, and whether Katisha gets left out in the cold.

Jack Gore is the director of this production, with Max Noah as conductor. The college choir members will be costumed as a chorus of school-girls, nobles, guards, and coolies. Tickets for 50c may be bought from any choir member.

Each spring quarter about this time the Faculty Committee on Student Relations selects an outstanding senior to receive this award. The choice is made on the basis of leadership and scholastic achievements. Jo was selected from a group of nine seniors.

Saturday May 5, Jo attended the state meeting of the A.A.U.W. At a banquet Saturday night Jo received her year's free membership certificate.

Jo is past president of College Government Association and is majoring in English. She will graduate in June and next fall will enter Smith College in Northampton Mass., where she will study education and English.

Baptist Student Union Members

Attend Picnic

About thirty-five enthusiastic BSUers in bluejeans met under the GSCW lights on May 4 to hike over to Bonner Park for their annual picnic.

The group met under the shed since the ball ground of the park was being used by another party. Games were lead by Mildred Barrett and "Scotty" Scott. After playing games of charade and magic, supper was served which was prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gilstrap. Fried chicken and potato salad were quite welcomed after the hike over there.

After supper prayer mates in groups of two's spent a about thirty minutes in scattered groups over the hillside discussing problems of personal concern and praying together. Then Jackie Skinner led the group in several well-known choruses.

Sue Stovall and her committee planned the picnic. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gilstrap, and Miss Ann Bell, the faculty sponsor, chaperoned the students. Miss Ikella Odum was guest of the BSUers.

Baptist Student Union Elects Future Officers

Newly elected officers for the Baptist Student Union for the year beginning this quarter are: Sybil Smith, president; Mary Jo Claxton, first vice president; Jackie Taylor, second vice president; Mary Frances Willoughby, third vice president; Myrtle Sanders, music; Bobby Jo Wilson, freshman advisor; Tot Crook, training union; Carolyn Rainey, Sunday School; Ann Robertson, extension; Jackie Skinner, secretary; Virginia Yarbrough, treasurer; Virgie Sellers, promotion; Virginia Lambreth, librarian; Shirley Burnette, Young Women Association.

The group met under the shed since the ball ground of the park was being used by another party. Games were lead by Mildred Barrett and "Scotty" Scott. After playing games of charade and magic, supper was served which was prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gilstrap. Fried chicken and potato salad were quite welcomed after the hike over there.

After supper prayer mates in groups of two's spent a about thirty minutes in scattered groups over the hillside discussing problems of personal concern and praying together. Then Jackie Skinner led the group in several well-known choruses.

Sue Stovall and her committee planned the picnic. Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gilstrap, and Miss Ann Bell, the faculty sponsor, chaperoned the students. Miss Ikella Odum was guest of the BSUers.

Baptist Student Union Elects Future Officers

Newly elected officers for the Baptist Student Union for the year beginning this quarter are: Sybil Smith, president; Mary Jo Claxton, first vice president; Jackie Taylor, second vice president; Mary Frances Willoughby, third vice president; Myrtle Sanders, music; Bobby Jo Wilson, freshman advisor; Tot Crook, training union; Carolyn Rainey, Sunday School; Ann Robertson, extension; Jackie Skinner, secretary; Virginia Yarbrough, treasurer; Virgie Sellers, promotion; Virginia Lambreth, librarian; Shirley Burnette, Young Women Association.

Each spring quarter about this time the Faculty Committee on Student Relations selects an outstanding senior to receive this award. The choice is made on the basis of leadership and scholastic achievements. Jo was selected from a group of nine seniors.

Saturday May 5, Jo attended the state meeting of the A.A.U.W. At a banquet Saturday night Jo received her year's free membership certificate.

Jo is past president of College Government Association and is majoring in English. She will graduate in June and next fall will enter Smith College in Northampton Mass., where she will study education and English.

Etheredge Given Award

Mickey Young

The Herty Committee of the Georgia Section of the American Chemical Society announced its choice of Dean Mahlon Padgett Etheredge of Mississippi State College, as the recipient of the Herty Metal for 1956.

The award, sponsored jointly by the Chemistry Club of G S C W and the Georgia Section of the American Chemical Society was presented May 5, at a banquet in Atkinson dining hall. The purpose of the award is to give public recognition to the work and service of outstanding chemists who have contributed to the field of chemistry in the South. It was established in memory of the late Charles Herty, eminent chemist who was a native of Milledgeville.

Dean Etheredge's address was concerned with present day education. He brought out that education today emphasizes method rather than the subject to be taught.

Following the banquet and the presentation of the award, coffee was served in Herty Hall.

State GHEA Officers Held Meeting Recently

Lillian Mims

The state officers of the College Club Section of the Georgia Home Economics Association met on the campus of Georgia State College for Women on Saturday, May 5. The newly elected officers met with the retiring officers for the purpose of becoming better acquainted with responsibilities which entail the various offices. New ideas for the coming year were also topics of discussion.

The council voted to help defray the expenses of Ruth Brown, National Vice President of College Clubs, and Marilyn Middleton, incoming National President of College Clubs, to the National AHEA Convention to be held in Washington D. C. GSCW officers issued an invitation to the Georgia College Clubs to meet here for the Workshop to be held next Fall Quarter. Those attending the meeting were: retiring officers -- Marilyn Middleton -- president, GSCW; Carolyn Milner -- 2nd vice president, U. of Ga.; and Mildred Sparks -- chairman of public relations, U. of Ga. Newly elected officers present were: Eleanor Inman -- president, U. of Ga.; Velma Crozier -- 1st vice president, GSCW; Mary Katherine Duggan -- 2nd vice president, Tift College; Lillian Mims -- Chairman of public relations, GSCW; Nancy Hodgson -- secretary, U. of Ga.; Sara Ellen Phillips, treasurer, Tift College; Mrs. McDougal -- state advisor, U. of Ga.; and Miss Gladys Gilbert -- counselor, GSCW. Mrs. Carolyn Snow -- club advisor, Tift College was also present.

Girls Reveal Gratitude For Resigning Dean

The student body dedicated the chapel program Monday, April 30, to Dean Maxwell in order that they might show her their appreciation of her services as dean. Jo Strickland, past president of CGA, Billie Sue West, president of YWCA, and Mildred Barrett, president of the Recreation Association spoke on behalf of the students. They stated that

Freshman Term Paper Proves Time Consuming

Martha Thomas

It is a typical Saturday morning at GSCW and Susie, a freshman, straggles wearily into her room and flops on the nearest bed. Her roommate, red-eyed from much concentrated study, peeks from around the pile of books that surround her on the bed, manages a weak smile, and queries, "Did you get a letter from Tom this morning?"

"Tom" cries the pitiful creature addressed, "Why I even forgot to go to the P. O. I've been at the library all morning. You know, I've spent so much time worrying about Herman lately I just haven't had a moment even to think about Tom."

At first hearing this may sound as if somebody's slowly but surely getting the "shaft in the back," but when Herman turns out to be not Herman-from-GMC or Herman-the-town-boy but Herman Melville, famous, novelist who never did anything more devastating to Susie than upsetting her equilibrium a bit with a book like Pierre--well, that's a different matter.

Actually though, if Tom knew that Susie was everyday finding out more about Herman than she ever bothered to discover about him, he could be permitted a twinge of jealousy. As a matter of fact, Susie -- if she should meet Herman's wife today--would probably feel quite qualified, having read his life, his letters, his writings for her term paper in English 102, to give her a little kindly advice on how she might have handled her man a little better.

Term papers, when they are written on interesting people, are really lots of fun. Gabbfests in the girl's rooms almost always involve remarks on Byron's latest indiscretion, or why he wrote that particular love poem. But then someone will always come up with, "Oh, gosh, only two more days and term papers have to be in." Now, that's a sobering thought and usually causes the parties involved to disband quickly and set themselves to seriously trying to get down on paper something substantial enough to "interest Dr. Dawson."

One particular girl, started to the library one night to work on her term paper, went downstairs to sign out, hurriedly and absentmindedly scribbled something on her white card, and as she started to file it again, stared down astonished at what she had written, which was: Time: May 3; Destination: Library; Date: Thomas Jefferson. (Please don't scoff, because this really happened.)

Miss Maxwell has been a very real aid to their organizations as well as to the entire student body.

Beth Royal, president of the Literary Guild, welcomed Miss Maxwell's return to the English department. She pointed out to the students that their loss is, in another sense, their gain. "Miss Maxwell is an excellent teacher for she challenges her students to study and learn," Beth stated. Iris Barr, president of CGA presented the material expression of the students' gratitude, a beautiful sterling silver shell shaped bowl.

SHIRLEY KEMP

Obi sash . . . bandana prints . . . red . . . Jamaica length . . . high line . . . red . . . liquid look . . . T-shirt . . . red. Does it sound like Greek to you? I surely hope not because that's the latest fashion lingo. Bend your fashion ears a little closer and I'll explain some of this summer's secrets.

Whether you'll be basking in the sun or strolling in the shade you'll be hotter than a firecracker on the Fourth of July in red this season. Red, red, red is found everywhere, one vivid color with a simple line topped off by accessories of brown or black. Or you can be daring by adding a bunch of orange poses! Ask for lacquer red, summer red, or flame red and you'll be in style.

Prints appear in coats, dresses, shoes, hats, bags, and belts. One of the newest prints is the bandana. Bandanas are everywhere. They are elegant for beach outfits, nice cover-ups for city sheaths and just the right touch for hatbands.

For the cool "liquid" look try city sheaths. They feature the high line to the waist and come in sleeveless, collared, and strictly string-bean styles. The color--smart summer black accented by dazzling white jackets which are slim, sleeveless, and knee length.

The blousing line, the T-shirt, shirtwaist and full skirt are found in dresses this summer. The blousing line is available in a great variety of styles. T-shirt and shirt-waist dresses are made of knitted cotton in pale colors, red, black, and the very popular spring color, string-beige. Full skirts appear in sheers of cool, frosty dotted swiss, organdie, and chiffon.

For summer in the sun shorts are very much in view. The "long" shorts have had three inches cut off and the Bermuda-length has given way to the Jamaica length. In short--shorts are shorter! They are worn with blouses which are tucked in or cut off at the waist. Short shorts are covered by an overblouse which shows only about one or two inches of the shorts.

On Every Campus... College Men and Women are discovering why VICEROYS are Smoother

Here is the reason: Only VICEROY has 20,000 filters in every tip--twice as many filters as the other two largest-selling filter brands--to give that smoother taste--that VICEROY taste!

VICEROYS are Smoother than any other cigarette. Because Viceroy's have twice as many filters as the other two leading filter brands!

The exclusive Viceroy filter is made from pure cellulose--soft, snow-white, natural!

Two Recent Lectures Depict Good Literature

DORIS PARK

On Thursday, April 19, Dr. Rosa Lee Walston spoke in chapel on the "Value of Poetry." Dr. Walston pointed out that literature is tied up with the good things of life. She defined imagination as being the greatest of all gifts and a valued way of looking at reality. By using examples from Shakespeare, Dr. Walston showed the students what they can get from poetry if they apply themselves.

On Monday, April 23, the Literary Guild had charge of the Chapel Program. Dr. Henry Stanford spoke to the students on the subject of German Literature. Dr. Stanford told the assembly about a bicycle tour he made in Germany while studying there in 1936-37. As he told the student body about the different places he visited, Dr. Stanford brought out some of the literature closely connected with those cities. Dr. Stanford also brought out that German is a member of the endo-European language family.

Dr. Stanford discussed the first national poem of Germany, Das Nibelungenlied, as a mystic confusion of history and legend. Martin Luther's translation of the Bible has meant to the German people what the King James' version has meant to the English speaking people.

Goethe, Germany's greatest lyrical poet, is at the peak of German literature. His greatest creation is Faust. This work was completed in the nearly sixty years from 1882-1831 and therefore contains experiences from over a life time.

Schiller, another German poet, is the author of Wilhelm Tell. Schiller was a contemporary and a good friend of Goethe.

Heinrich Heine, Germany's second greatest lyrical poet, became lost to many of the German people during the years preceding and during the time of Hitler's regime because he was a Jew.

Dr. Stanford ended his talk by reading a poem, "The Panther," by Rilke, a modern German poet.

Initiation Of Members Held At Sanford House

Betty Gilmore

Pi Gamma Mu, the honorary business fraternity, initiated its new members on Wednesday, April 18, 1956 at 6:30 p.m. at the Sanford House.

The new members are Susan Carpenter, Patricia Blacklock Mathis, Lattie Elizabeth Stancil and Billie Sue West. The new members were dressed in white and made a very impressive picture.

The new officers of the fraternity who were introduced after dinner are: Dr. D. F. Folger, President; Billie Sue West, Vice-President; and Miss Mary Burns, Secretary-Treasurer.

Dr. Malcolm Lester, Dean of Liberal Arts at Mercer University, was the guest speaker at the banquet. Following an introduction by Dr. Henry K. Stanford, Dr. Lester gave a talk on "Culture and Character."

Exchange Student's Life Reflects Self Education

FRANCES HILL

Living on our GSCW campus this spring is a most interesting and attractive student, Eleonora Agatha Cebotarev, from Encarnacion, Paraguay.

Eleonora was born in Chechoslovakia, where she lived the first seven years of her life. Her family later moved to Captain Miranda, a colony about ten miles from Encarnacion. There she lived with her parents on a farm for twenty years. At the present she is a citizen of Paraguay. Eleonora has only one small adopted brother.

A very outstanding phase of Eleonora's life is that she is self-educated, especially in the fields of home economics, agriculture and art.

At the age of eight, she attended the first grade which was her only instructed training. This was all of her schooling until she was given the wonderful opportunity of coming to the United States to study in the American schools.

In Paraguay, the opportunities for receiving an education are few. In the rural areas, there are only grammar schools, while all the high schools are located in the cities. The income of most people in Paraguay is very small. There are no school buses to take the children to and from school.

Eleonora has apparently been a wise and intellectual individual in the use of her time. While at home most of her time, she studied hard, read all the books and best literature she could obtain, and associated with people who could help her with certain problems.

Of the many foreign students who have come to our campus, Eleonora is one who can speak eight different languages. Six of these she speaks fluently: English, Spanish, German, French, Russian, Czechoslovakian, and two others, Ucranian and Guarani.

It seems that Eleonora's parents are a great help to her in her self-education, because they both can speak several different languages also. Her mother is a Czechoslovakian and her father is Russian. They speak Spanish, German, Russian, Czechoslovakian, and Guarani.

Perhaps we all want to know how Eleonora was chosen to come to the United States and just how she got to Jessie.

Within the Servicio's Cooperative Agricultural and Livestock Extension program there is developing a country-wide interest in the improvement of rural family living. Eleonora is here to obtain special knowledge in this field. At the present Paraguay has no home economics or extension program, so there is a big demand for teachers and leaders specialized in this particular field.

Eleonora, as a volunteer leader, has been carrying on an outstanding program with rural youth in several communities of Paraguay. When she returns she will continue to serve as a local leader and teacher, working with agricultural and home economics extension people.

Before Eleonora left her home in Paraguay she was president of the 4-H Club in her community. This organization has been in her country for about three years, and

Y's News Review

MIDDLE EAST

U. N. Peacemaker, Dag Hammarskjold, flew to the Middle East to try to settle the border tension between Israel and the allied Arab nations. The underlying trouble began when Israel became a nation in 1948. The immediate trouble, however, started when Israel wanted to divert water from the Jordan River to irrigate their coastal plains, Lebanon, Syria, and Jordan, being desert areas and bounded by the river, feel that the present water shortage might be decreased.

It appears that Hammarskjold will only be able to get an armistice from the three countries although his more distant dream is to attain a settlement with a stable peace.

Israel's foreign minister, Moshe Sharett, told the 24th Zionist Congress in Jerusalem last week: "Israel will not precipitate any major crisis."

Visitors Welcomed By Business Dept.

The business administration department will welcome visitors to open house in their department on Honor's Day. All rooms in the department will be open, including the typing rooms, business machines room, transcription room and the mimeograph service room. To demonstrate more effectively the machines, some of the business majors will be operating a few of them. One machine that will be in operation is the robot-typewriter. With only a fill-in of name and such data by the operator, this machine will automatically type a letter giving a much more personal touch than mimeographed material. Guests will be escorted through the department by hostesses. All guests will be invited to register when they visit the department.

Activities In The Gym

Today, Honor's Day in the GSCW gymnasium, various demonstrations are taking place so that the parents may see some of the recreations their daughters enjoy. Among the activities going on are: aerial darts, ping pong, tumbling, badminton, and basketball. The skills necessary for these games are developed in the many physical educational courses.

Home Ec. Professor Selects Mrs. Georgia

Mrs. Smith, associate professor of home economics, was selected to act as one of the judges for Mrs. Georgia, in the Mrs. America contest. She left Thursday morning April 19 with all expenses paid for Atlanta and the Dinkler Plaza. She helped select Mrs. Georgia from the standpoint of outstanding homemaking and attractiveness--not beauty. The winner was announced and crowned Saturday night at the city auditorium.

she has helped in promoting it. She has been an important leader in many activities. Eleonora was the voluntary leader in the agricultural youth program.

"Buzzing Around"

Mary Benzo

Greetings to all our favorite guests. It's really a grand pleasure to have all you Moms and Dads at our beloved Jessie. Surely hope you will learn a little about life here and why we rave about "our" school so much.

Well, let's get down to the happenings on our campus, since the last issue.

Guess everyone in the dining hall heard congratulations being sung to Betty Mobley on her engagement.

Did you see those "funny" looking people walking around on campus, Wednesday? They turned out to be people being initiated into Alpha Psi Omega, the honorary dramatic society. Congratulations girls.

Those Beeson Hall girls have really been getting out a lot these days. Luanne Harden and Gloria Jones have been having a gay time on Sunday nights dating two fellows from Camp Gordon.

Another group stepping out these spring days with cadets and others are: Marie, Scottie, Joyce, Mildred, and Sue.

Here's wishing Marguerite Pettigrew Folendore best wishes on her recent marriage.

Four "Beesonites" were having a merry old time the other night, when they received the scare of their lives. From out of nowhere, it seemed, came a voice, accompanied by a face asking one of them to run around and unlock the side door. A while later the voice returned with a huge paper plate piled high with delicious food. It was a picnic supper for scaring the girls so badly. The food was consumed, the plate licked clean and the suite in Beeson returned to normal(?)

Congratulations to Martha Faircloth on her beautiful diamond.

Those girls going to Dooley's follies at Emory this weekend were Anne Reese, Mildred Kennedy, Helen Cook and Virginia Watts.

A tea for "Summer Brides" was given by the Home Economics class 421 on Tuesday honoring those girls who are going to "tie the knot" this summer. These "lucky" girls are Janetta Faulkner, Bernice Strickland, Jean Cheely, Sherry Horne.

Linda Morris "Ray of Sunshine" from the University of Georgia brought her back to school this past weekend.

GMC cadet has been ring-in' Bell's B. Richardson.

Well, that's all the news for now and remember I'll be buzzing around.

Organ And Piano Recital Presented By Music Majors

An organ and piano recital will be given on May 14 and 15 in Russell and Porter Auditoriums at 8:00 p. m. by Edna Marshall and Rebecca Smith, respectively.

Edna will present her organ recital on Monday night in Russell Auditorium.

Edna is a senior at GSCW, and has majored in organ. She is a member of the A Capella Choir, the Methodist Church Choir, and Sigma Alpha Iota. She has also served as president of the Allegro Club.

On Tuesday evening in Porter Auditorium Rebecca will give her piano recital.

Rebecca, a senior at GSCW, has majored in piano while attending GSCW. She is a member of the Methodist Church Choir, and Sigma Alpha Iota.

Edna and Rebecca are students of Dr. Max Noah, who is head of the music department of the college.

Future Plans Made At Lake By Group

The Westminster Fellowship recently had a retreat at the Hodges home on Sinclair Lake for the purpose of making plans for the coming months.

On the weekend of April 20-22, several of the members attended the conference on World Missions at Rock Eagle.

Among other activities, W. F. has sent gifts to Agnes Gobert, missionary to Japan, whose belongings were destroyed by fire.

A series of provocative programs on "The Christian Student's Responsibility in National Affairs" is presently being given. The Rev. Kirkland of the local Episcopal church is conducting these discussions.

The next series of programs will be on the subject "Campus Christians - Inspired or Insipid."

Dance Club Holds Initiation Service

The Modern Dance Club of GSCW held its initiation service this past week to welcome into the Senior Club those Junior Dance Club members, who had shown the required qualifications and outstanding ability in dance and group participation. To become a member of Senior Dance Club the initiate must have choreographed an acceptable dance and must have shown by her Junior Club membership that she is capable in technical skills as well as in accepting responsibility and providing leadership.

The girls initiated were:

Barbara Abney, Cochran; Mary Jane Beland, Atlanta; Mary Jo Claxton, Wrightsville; Jackie Eichelberger, Milledgeville; Margaret Garner, Milledgeville; Elaine Holliman, Toombsboro; Carolyn Hughes, Homerville; Robbie Jardine, Douglas; Ellen Jenkins, Mountville; Dorothy Patterson, Waycross; Jackie Skinner, Wrightsville; and Pat Wimberly, Macon.

After the initiation service the new Senior Modern Dance Club elected officers for the school year 1956-57. The new officers are: Lu Anne Harden, president; Margie Garner, first vice-president; Mary Jo Claxton, second vice-president; Becky Garbutt, secretary; Frances Hill, Treasurer; Carolyn Hughes, historian; Jackie Eichelberger and Barbara Abney, costume co-chairman; Mary Jane Beland, music chairman; and Jackie Skinner, research chairman.

The past president of Junior Club, Margaret Garner, gave a lovely buffet supper at her home for the Junior Dance club members the week preceding their initiation.

"Y's" Owl

I want to congratulate all my owlets because they are all up on their p's and q's of studying now thanks to the help of Dr. Frances Hicks who helped with study habits in the Y apartment on May 2 and 4. The helpful study hints issued by Dr. Hicks are sure to pull up some of those mid-term grades.

But the owlets are not just absorbing book-learning, they are learning to reason for themselves. In the current affairs group they are discussing a vital issue of the day, segregation. Since they know there are many sides to the problem, the owlets are trying to discuss the issue from all angles.

These issues seem easier to discuss in a pleasant atmosphere; Y has the perfect spot. The different committees and groups have migrated out to the patio for their spring meetings. It is especially nice on the patio because the furniture is newly painted and there are new pillow covers. What could be better than to sit around outside, talk about interesting subjects, and sip ice tea with mint? Why don't you join us sometime?

Spotlight On Sports

Softball:

Come on . . . let's have a little chatter! You're the one . . . this will be an "easy out!" . . . "Let's play ball!"

The Sopomore class softball team beat the Frosh team twenty to one in the opening game between the classes. With Marty Camp pitching and Pam Cutts catching, who else could you expect? Both teams played with high spirits, but each team lacked the support of their fellow classmates.

Jessies Have A "Ball" But, Oh, The Prelims

Martha Thomas

Two weekends ago around eight o'clock on Saturday night, — young men invaded the white-columbed halls of Terrell, Bell, Beeson, and Ennis and fetched — radiant young ladies over to the big gym where they literally and enthusiastically "had a Ball". Although the "Masked Ball" was probably one of the best dances we've ever been to, the dance itself was something almost anticlimactic when one considers all that went on before hand.

Weeks before the dance, in the "beach" area between Bell and Terrell, Ole Mister Sun was having a hard time finding anywhere to lay his head but on somebody's slowly pinkish shoulders. For girls that had to stay in and study sun lamps were resorted to for a quick rush job.

Then there were the masks, which represented hours to days of work according to the amount of originality and time available. Many of those packages seen taken carelessly from the P. O., someone's mother had packed with remnants of net or taffeta from her daughter's formal.

Besides sun bathing and mask-making, there were numerous other preparations to be made. Dresses had to be tried on, perhaps let out or taken in a little, and carefully pressed. Shoes, bags, gloves, hoops, and all that paraphernalia had to be dug out of the closet and made ready. Then the day of the dance was completely given over to doing over the girls themselves from the top of each shampooed and sparkling curl to each well manicured toe. Finally began the full dress parade up and down the halls before the mirrors for the full effect

All the Soph players demonstrated fancy ball work; and the Frosh, well they demonstrated play.

Because of a shortage of Juniors and Seniors who have the required practices, both classes have combined to form a team. Check the dormitory bulletin boards to find out when there will be another game. Come out and support your team!

Badminton:

With only one round left in the badminton tournament, Hutt and Smitha, Branch and Dunaway, and Hendrickson and Hicks remain undefeated in the doubles tournament. Remember players, play your games off before the dead line. And spectators, this is another chance for you to be out in the sun plus enjoy a couple of games.

Swimming Meet:

At the class swimming meet on May 4, the Junior class won with 47 points while the Sophs and Frosh tied with 41 points. Outstanding events were the 25 yard free style by Bug, the diving by Milly and the relay by the Frosh. As the winners were announced the swimmers proceeded to fill the pool with judges, timers, and runners!

just as the dates began to arrive.

As a certain two girls left their room to make their triumphant entrance, they observed their suitemate relaxing breathlessly on the bed. She explained, "Tell Billy he'll just have to wait a few minutes. I'm so worn out from getting ready, I'm almost too tired to go to the dance."

Some of the boys evidently didn't realize that their dates were not quite in top physical shape. As, for instance, the fellow who, no matter what the band played—slow dance, jitterbug, mambo, or warm-up — declared that it was his very favorite number and "we've gotta dance to this one! You're not tired are you?" The girl replied carelessly, "Of course not (with a shallow laugh). But is there any kind where you don't have to use your feet?"

Admittedly, this may be a wee bit exaggerated; for few were too "pooped to bop." Everyone who went would be quick to say, "It was worth every minute of it; we just wish we could have an ordeal like that more often."

Guests Arrive To Honor Dr. Ingram

Dr. Ingram, President of West Georgia College, will be the recipient of the annual Honor's Day award here at GSCW May 10, 1956. In honor of his award the following persons will be on campus: Mr. and Mrs. G. Conley Ingram, nephew of Dr. Ingram and his wife; Miss Anne Ingram, the daughter of Dr. Ingram; Dean William H. Row, Dean of West Georgia College; Mr. S. H. Acklen; Prof. L. S. Hazelgrove; Prof. Col. L. Johnson; Prof. Carson Pritchard; Miss Helen Womack; and Miss Marion Crider, all of West Georgia College. Also attending will be President and Mrs. George C. Seward of Oglethorpe

University; Rev. Richard O. Flinn, Jr. of Carrollton, Ga.; President and Mrs. L. E. Roberts of Middle Georgia College; Dr. and Mrs. Robert O. Arnold (Chairman of the Board of Regents); and Mr. Mac Callahan, President of West Georgia College Student Body. Among other guests will be Dr. M. Gordon Brown, Asst. Chancellor of WGC; the Rev. and Mrs. Haskel C. Stratton of the First Methodist Church of Carrollton, Ga.; Mr. Quinton Prinel, Principal of Sand Hill School; Mr. Comer B. Yates; Miss Annie Belle Weaver and Mr. Floyd Wirsing of West Georgia College.
